Circulation Department Dresses Up for Textbooks

If you were walking along in a studious-induced gaze, you may not have noticed that the Circulation Department got a makeover this summer. It was like the reality show, “What Not to Wear.” As the fashion dude was throwing stuff out, Circulation was all, “But I got these bookshelves while I was in college.” Fashion DudeTM was like, “You get everything in college because you’re, like, in a college” and Circ didn’t really know how to respond to that and was all, “Oh.” And Dude was all, “Yeah.” So, dude won out and Circ got new modernized bookshelves with a retro flair that looked good with her complexion and earrings.

But why? Because! We needed to make room for glorious textbooks. Every single textbook for all 1000-4000 level courses is behind the Circulation Desk, available for checkout for 2 hours at a time. Let that sink in a moment. You may take your Nautilus Card and check out your textbook for free. What else is free in this life?* You’re welcome, comrades.

*Besides love and cookies (see below).

Paws & Play: Let Fido Take Your Worries Away

What is more relaxing than petting a dog? Back in the day, there was a song that said, “If you want a friend / feed any animal” and surely petting yields similar results.* So, take a break to cuddle with a therapy dog (aka ready-friend) and relax with other de-stressing activities, courtesy of our friends at Counseling & Wellness Services.

September 13th 11am-1pm
John C. Pace Library, 1st floor

*Or my name ain’t Britt.

Argie Stardust: UWF Libraries David Bowie Book Club

The legendary musician, David Bowie, was a prolific reader. This UWF Libraries virtual book club will encourage the reading and discussion of David Bowie’s favorite books in celebration of his life. Join at: facebook.com/groups/ArgieStardust.

I’ll start the ball rolling the second week of classes.
Love,
Ground Control